A leader of the very large group of Magisterians in Alexandria who had suffered very much by the same position and intimations of the republics of the C. in the ~~the~~ confession in a letter to ~~the~~ ^{had been} that he was on the verge of embracing Islamite fasted 8 days (at three of which ^{days he} ~~was~~ ^{fasted} in order to atone for such a sinful intention.

v 1-3 After return of JSM to advancement did not feel well. JSM asserts that he was the first did supporter (mainly after beginning of first 2 yrs)

v 8 Why they cease to have respect for JSM perhaps after he had been in disgrace once, was eager not to become a second time.
JSM JSM was a close relative of Nakiraga a partner to a size in 1100 10/22/12
If he was JSM's brother of JSM, then he could not be identical with JSM mentioned by JSM (see my notes to the tree in MN Ph.D.)

p. 21 JSM's was Nakiraga who in Alex see Kimyas
a famous physician

v 19. JSM = JSM with first born. JSM Signed already in 1066 when he was at least 25. So here HT approximately First son born after return from exile & therefore suspicious
